Progress made in Previous Week: For the duration of the previous week, I wasn't able to work much due to the product launch at my company which I've been working on. Although I was able to do some research on how to add easy support of voice translation to all open-source LLM and I came up with a idea of creating a simple python library. Will look more into it this week.

I've achieved the following

- Successfully launched AI agentic flow framework (OpenAGI). Link below.
- Got the idea to create a python library from my existing work at AI Planet.

https://pypi.org/project/openagi/

P.S. I would really like to know about your views on this product.

Suggestions by the Supervisor for the next week:
